PREFACE.

THE series of rolls known as Charter Rolls begins with the first year of King John and extends to the eighth year of King Henry VIII. After the latter date, the charter, strictly so-called, was only used in rare cases, chiefly if not entirely for the conferring of titles of honour; and such charters were enrolled upon the Patent Roll. The latest charter known to have passed the great seal was that by which, in 1620, Charles, son of King James I, was created Prince of Wales.

The entries upon the Charter Rolls comprise grants and confirmations of liberties, privileges, offices, dignities, lands and pensions to corporations and individuals, civil and ecclesiastical. All these subjects were of course equally dealt with by Letters Patent; but the entries of a judicial and administrative nature, which make up a large part of the Patent Rolls, are almost wholly wanting from the Charter Rolls. In form, a Charter is distinguished from Letters Patent by the salutation clause addressed to Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Earls, Barons and so forth, the list of dignitaries enumerated varying from time to time; by the quare volumus clause; and also by the enumeration at the close of the names of attesting witnesses; it was originally stated to be given by the hand of the chancellor or his deputy; but from the year 1227, when King Henry III took the seal into his own hands, the final clause has normally run, Data per manum nostram apud &c. die &c. The main body of the document differs in no way from Letters Patent dealing with a similar subject. It should be noticed that the issue of a charter generally implies the presence of the King.

There is at present no satisfactory guide to the contents of the Charter Rolls subsequent to the reign of King John. Copies or abstracts of entries relating to particular subjects have from time to time been made, and many such collections may be found in the British Museum and elsewhere. Many monastic chartularies have been printed by learned societies or by independent antiquaries; and the charters of many towns have been made accessible in the same way. Some attempt has been made to give references to such sources in the present volume; but in the absence of any general list of printed charters, a complete system of references is unattainable. A list of books referred to in this volume is given herewith. But it must be repeated that neither the authorities cited nor the references to them are exhaustive.

The only approach to a general account of the contents of the Charter Rolls is the Calendarium Rotulorum Chartarum printed in 1803 by the Record Commission from a MS. apparently written in the reign of James I. This is supposed to give the name of the person in whose favour each charter was issued, and a list of the places mentioned in the charter. The original MS. was, however, both incomplete and inaccurate; and no attempt was made to supply these defects by comparison with the original rolls.

The following portions of the series have been printed in a form accessible to students.

In 1837, the Record Commission published a Latin transcript, with contractions literatim, of the Charter Rolls of the reign of John, with a valuable introduction by Mr. Thomas Duffus Hardy.

In 1885, M. Francisque Michel, in a volume entitled 'Rôles Gascons,' published an extended Latin transcript of some short rolls of the reign of Henry III, containing the enrolments of charters issued by the king while abroad; and in 1890 and 1896 two further volumes were published by M. Charles Bémont. These volumes form part of the Documents Inédits published in Paris by the Ministry of Public Instruction.

The object of the present undertaking is to provide an English Calendar of the Charter Rolls from the reign of Henry III to that of Henry VIII inclusive. In its general lines the present calendar resembles the Calendar of Patent Rolls now in course of publication, and follows the rules laid down in the Introduction to the volume of that Calendar dealing with the first four years of Edward III. It will accordingly only be necessary here to specify the few points where a different system has been employed.

The smaller bulk of the rolls has made it unnecessary to omit any of the entries. On the other hand, it has not been found possible to include in the present Calendar the names of the attesting witnesses. To have added them at the end of each charter would have involved intolerable repetition. They have accordingly been reserved for separate treatment in connexion with a proposed itinerary of the Kings of England.

It should be pointed out that the language used in many charters is often taken verbatim from a charter of earlier date. So much is this the case in the early rolls of Henry III, that some of the charters there enrolled consist simply of a charter of some earlier king, altered, where needful, to suit the fresh date given to it. Where possible these charters have been dealt with by reference in the Calendar to the earlier charter used; when this could not be discovered, they have been abstracted in the usual manner. After the first few years, charters of this kind are for the most part replaced by charters of Inspeximus. In dealing with these it has been thought desirable to print in full all charters of kings earlier than Henry III that are not known to have been printed already. A few other charters which seemed of special interest, or which presented difficulties of interpretation or transcription, have been treated in the same way.

The text has been prepared, under my immediate supervision, by Mr. R. D. Trimmer, an Assistant Record Keeper, and Mr. C. G. Crump, of the Public Record Office, and the latter has compiled the Indexes.

LIST OF CHARTERS PRINTED IN FULL.

The following list shows all the charters printed in full in the present volume. They have been arranged, as far as possible, in chronological order. The limits of date assigned to the undated charters might often have been narrowed by plausible conjectures. But it has been thought best to make use of dates less liable to objection.

De subjectione autem clericorum et hominum abbatis et conventus Sancti Augustini sic convenit, quod clerici eorum et homines maneriorum et abbacie archiepiscopo Cantuariensi et archidiacono et eorum officialibus in spiritualibus subjacebunt ratione delicti extra septa antedicta perpetrati, hac distinctione servata, quod clerici sive servientes capitales in maneriis ipsorum, cum sint de familia abbatis, si aliquando fecisse dicantur aliquid quod excommunicationem inducat majorem vel minorem, ante discussionem facti, nisi forte factum esset notorium, vel antequam confessi fuerint, vel convicti, vel in opere deprehensi, vel contumaces post legitimam citationem extra septa monasterii sibi factam, ab ordinariis nec excommunicari poterunt nominatim nec suspendi. Si quis autem taliter extra septa delinquentium ad monasterium confugerit, abbas vel is, qui pro tempore preerit monasterio, compellet eum stare juri coram eisdem, vel expellet eum de abbatia, omni tamen jurisdictione ordinaria seu cohercione infra septa monasterii cessante.

Institutiones etiam personarum seu vicariorum in ecclesiis Sancti Augustini ab archiepiscopo vel ejus officiali fient ad presentationem abbatis et conventus Sancti Augustini, ita quidem quod cum personam vel vicarium in ipsorum ecclesiis decedere contigerit, retentio clavium penes abbatem et conventum residebit, donec ad presentationem eorum aliquis instituatur, et post factam institutionis missio per archidiaconum in corporalem possessionem, salva tamen interim jurisdictione archidiaconi debita, si ad illas ecclesias accedat vel mittat. Fructus vero medii temporis inter abbatem et archidiaconum dimidiabuntur et ei, qui vice archidiaconi faciet missionem, abbas et conventus tradent clavem; archidiaconus vero vel ejus nuncius omnem residuam facient solempnitatem; simul etiam erit dimidiatio sequestrorum.

Item pro bonò pacis concedunt abbas et conventus quod archidiaconus, quando visitationis excercet officium in ecclesiis eorum sicut in aliis ecclesiis diocesis Cantuariensis, recipiat procurationem consuetam exceptis propriis eorum ecclesiis, scilicet de Menstre, de Northburn, de Cistelet, de Faveresham, de Mideltun, que cum suis capellis immunes erunt in futuro tam a donis quam a procuratione archidiaconi et ejus officialium.

Item quamvis pro litibus sopiendis in futuro concedunt abbas et conventus, quod in ecclesiis ipsorum institutiones personarum et vicariorum fiant per archiepiscopum vel ejus officialem, et per archidiaconum, ut premissum est, missio in corporalem possessionem, prenominate tamen proprie ipsorum ecclesie libere erunt ab omni suspensione et interdicto ordinarii inperpetuum, cum eis a sede apostolica sit indultum, ne Cantuarienses archiepiscopi vel archidiaconi seu ejus officiales ecclesias eorum suspendere possint vel supponere interdicto, salva tamen omni jurisdictione in personas, ut dictum est. In capellis vero de Menstre, scilicet Sanctorum Petri et Johannis et Laurentii, presentabunt domino archiepiscopo ydoneos capellanos perpetuos ad alteragia, ita tamen quod singula alteragia valeant decem marcas; qui hac portione tamen erunt contempti [sic] sub pena amissionis dicte porcionis, si coram judice quocunque ex certa scientia plus aliquando petierint; presertim cum vicarius matricis ecclesie de Menstre, cui est sufficiens vicaria, ab antiquo taxata in eisdem, vicarie sue ratione minutarum percipiat decimam decimarum, agnorum videlicet et porcorum, et obventiones ex matrimoniis et purificationibus post partum et corporum quorundam sepultura provenientes, aliis ecclesiarum suarum capellanis, in quibus fuerunt vicarii, in suo statu remanentibus.

Prefatus siquidem archiepiscopus cum consensu archidiaconi inspectis Romanorum Pontificum privilegiis, et predecessorum suorum, scilicet Theobaldi, Ricardi memorati et Huberti, necnon et capituli sui et illustrium regum Anglorum scriptis autenticis memoratas ecclesias de Minstre, de Northburn, de Cistelet, de Faversham, de Middeltun cum capellis suis et decimis quas ratione earum perceperunt ab antiquo et omnibus pertinentiis suis, lite mota per predecessores suos non obstante, concedit et confirmat eisdem cum prebenda de Gutestun usibus ipsorum perpetuis pacifice retinendas cum libertate predicta, salvis vicariis consuetis in omnibus, dum tamen vicarius ecclesie de Cistel, qui pro tempore fuerit, de sua vicaria, ad quam spectant omnes obventiones et minores decime preter garbas et fenum, quinque marcas annuas solvat eisdem.

Quod autem pulsatio campanarum fiat de cetero contra abbatem in ecclesiis dictorum abbatis et conventus, secundum quod fieri consuevit, archiepiscopus sustinebit.

Anachorite vero de cetero non fient in ecclesiis Sancti Augustini ab abbate nisi per ordinarium nec per ordinarium nisi de consensu abbatis.

De annuis autem pensionibus, quas, ut premissum est, in diversis ecclesiis sui patronatus abbas et conventus hactenus perceperunt, concedit eis dictus archiepiscopus in ecclesia de Prestun vel de Selling, quam citius vacare contigerit viginti marcas annuas perpetuo percipiendas, ita tamen quod cetere ipsorum ecclesie de cetero sint libere ab hujusmodi prestationibus et pensionibus, et dicti abbas et conventus nil amplius in illa nec in aliis ecclesiis, quas nunc in proprios usus non habent, aliquam appropriationem de jure vendicent in futuro, nisi de novo eis concedantur.

Ut autem tollatur omnis sinistra suspicio dicti abbas et conventus nullam ecclesiam sui patronatus de cetero habebunt ad firmam nisi de consensu ordinariorum.

Si qua vero partium predictarum contra istam compositionem aliquid nunc impetravit vel impetraverit in futuro, irritum habeatur et inane, compositione nilominus firmum robur optinente.

Facta est autem hec compositio anno ab incarnatione domini m°cc°xxx°vij°, pontificatus dicti domini E. Cantuariensis archiepiscopi anno iiij°; Hiis testibus, &c.

Aug. 12. Shrewsbury. Inspeximus and confirmation of a chirograph, made on the morrow of St. James, 25 Henry III, in the court of the king at Gloucester in the presence of Stephen de Segrave, John son of Geoffrey, Jeremy de Kaxton, then justices of the king, and others, for the settlement of the plea moved between Walter de Clifford, son of Walter de Clifford, and Agnes de Gundi on the one part, and brother Stephen, the abbot, and the convent of Dore on the other, touching lands and pastures in Canterselif, whereby the said Walter gave up, for himself and his heirs, to St. Mary and the abbot and monks of Dore, all his lands of Wendor and Nanteglus, disafforested, with all free customs thereto belonging, to be by them and their men tilled, essarted, enclosed, and dealt with at their pleasure, with pastures, commons, and other liberties pursuant to the charters of the said Walter and his ancestors. And for the settlement of disputes as to the boundaries, the said Walter admits that the land of Wendor runs from Blainberherburh, where Caleturmaur rises, along the confines of Buelth on the west side as far as the Wye, and again from the head of Keleturmaur going down and dividing by the same stream on the south side to the Wye; and the metes of the monks' land of Nanteglus begin, where Nantmanagh falls into Kaleturboghan, and run up that stream to the head of Nantmanagh, which is between Wurichkey and Epyn, and thence run in a straight line westward to the head of Kaleturboghan, which rises on the upper part of Scuthwer, and thence straight to the Flemish way (viam Flandrensem), which divides the land of the monks from the land of Madoc Bochan of Ginnog, and along that road to the place called Sharn, where Nankartatherek rises, and down that stream to the point, where it falls into Kaleturboghan, and thence down Kaleturboghan, to the point where Nantmanagh falls into it. All these lands by the said metes the said monks may enclose and put in defense; nor shall any from Kantereselif or elsewhere with any beasts have common within in these lands, save upon the mountains of Epyn without the said bounds, since they have taken all these lands from the free forest of the said Walter and his ancestors; and if any deer be killed therein by the men or dogs of the said monks, it shall be taken to the grange of Wendor, and reported to the bailiffs of Brentles, that they may remove it thence, and neither the monks nor their men shall be troubled therefor; the nests of sparrow-hawks shall belong to the said Walter; but the beasts of the monks shall not be troubled on that account, nor their shepherds molested. Moreover the said monks and their servants shall have free entry, exit, and passage through the land of Kanterselif with their chattels by all roads and paths where other men have been wont to go. Moreover the said Walter restores to the said monks all that part of Epyn, which lies between the way, which runs to the cross of Yorwerth (crucem Yorwerth), and the wood of his forest, which he formerly included in the forest in violation of their charters. And since there was dispute between the said Walter and the monks touching the common of the whole land of the said Walter, as contained in their charters, it is defined to be pasture only for their beasts and for their sheep of Troscoit and Wardevoc over all the land between Treffret and Landewaslan, as far as Kesin, and thence as far as Kaleturboghan and so up by Nankartatherek to the Flemish way, saving the corn and meadows of his men, who have lands in the said pasture. Moreover the said Walter restores to the said monks pasture and common in wood and herbage of all his lands which lie south of the Flemish way, the bounds running along that way to the boundary of Gomot, and thence along another road which runs down to Ricbreckeynoc, and so down to the head of Duveleys, and thence to Tuchlarduveleys, so that within these metes the monks shall have free pasture also for their stud (equitium) when it comes thither, and so that they may take in the wood what they require for the granges of Troscoit and Wardevoc for building, for fuel and for making hedges; but without those bounds they shall have no claim to common, or husbot, or heibot. Nor ought the said Walter or his heirs to alienate or diminish the land with these metes, so far as the monks' pasture is concerned. And the foregoing lands and common the said Walter has granted to the said monks in frank almoin, in wood and open, without any diminution.
